

If I pre-register, will I need to register again upon arrival?

Everyone must check in at the event station upon arrival. We want to be sure college coaches know that you are here. Please review the “Day Of..” document on this web page.

Spectators are welcome to attend and will sit on the visiting side stands (school building side). Coaches and athletes only on the stadium turf.

Will I get to talk to College Coaches?

There will be time before, during and after the event for college coaches to meet and talk with athletes. We have staff who will work with athletes and college coaches to help facilitate these interactions.

What If I Want A Specific College To Be Invited

If there is a school that you're interested in but do not see it on the published list, please reach out to me and I'll make every effort to get them there.

If you have the opportunity, don't be afraid to approach coaches – it makes a good first impression. Don't interrupt them if they are watching a drill. Wait for the drill to end, introduce yourself and ask if you could talk later.

What Will College Coaches Be Evaluating?

The most obvious thing is how you perform athletically throughout the event. College coaches will have access to data and information collected before and during the event. If there is a specific college that is not attending that you would like to have your information provided to please have them contact me afterward.

Position Drills

If a college coach asks you to participate in a specific drill or position, I strongly recommend that you do so. Colleges are not necessarily evaluating you at the same position you have played since midget football. They are projecting you for performance at the college level.

Group / Competition Period

All group segments are scripted in advance to ensure exposure and opportunity. There are no “winners or losers”. College coaches are not looking for the most points or the best celebration. They will be looking at how you follow instructions, execute the instructions and perform in a group/team setting. They will also be looking to see how you interact and relate with your teammates and coaches. While we may be opponents in the fall, for this event we are all teammates trying to make the best impressions on college coaches.

Will I have to run a 40 Yard Dash?

There will not be any official run testing at this event. Opportunities for training/testing will be available prior to and after the event.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask.
